

Who Are You?

Joyce A. Council, a single mother of four, became an entrepreneur after retiring as a Double Diamond sales professional. She did this to make a difference in peoples lives. She found her niche in the financial industry and began the mission of teaching people the principles of not just counting their money, but in making their money count. She has a heart for serving others and often volunteers her time by helping young adults who were once in foster care make strategic lifestyle transitions. A thought-provoking conversationalist, Joyce loves to express her deeper, innermost thoughts in writing. She spent her childhood helping to care for her younger siblings. Seeing the uniqueness in each of her 14 brothers and sisters caused her to search for her own uniqueness. Out of love and understanding of peoples desire to find purpose in life, she wrote Who Are You? I am____. It is her intention to provide spiritual and emotional tools that will allow an individual to look deep beneath the surface of who people tend to identify themselves as - to help them see that there is more than meets the eye. I am Okay, You are Okay, and the Best is Yet to Come! - Joyce A. Council
